

HONORARY TREASURER sought

The Association for Education and Ageing (AEA) requires an Honorary Treasurer with effect from September 2017. The former Hon. Treasurer resigned because of demands from full-time employment.

AEA is a small charity concerned with the development of educational opportunities for older people through effective research, improved practice and better policies. Members, living mainly but not exclusively in the UK, are present and retired academics, older learners, researchers, teachers of adults and others who support AEA's aims.

The main responsibilities of AEA's Hon. Treasurer are keeping its financial affairs in order, monitoring its financial health, ensuring that proper financial records and effective procedures are in place, and producing necessary reports and returns. AEA's annual turnover over the last ten years has varied between £3K and £20K according to grant and conference income

The AEA hopes to attract to this voluntary post someone with an accountancy, banking or financial background who is sympathetic to the aims of the organisation. The post may suit someone who is retired or semi-retired.

Please express interest, or direct questions, to Professor Keith Percy, Acting Chair, Association for Education and Ageing (email: kozma-percy@gmail.com).
