

Learning in Later Life Online Classes

Enrol on a class starting in October delivered online by tutors from the Centre for Lifelong Learning, University of Strathclyde. The Centre has over 30 years' experience offering enriching classes in Glasgow to older adults. Going online opens up this experience to the wider UK population. Classes last from 4 to 10 weeks. Add a new interest, learn a language, do some creative art, improve your memory and enjoyment of life. Zoom allows tutor and participants to communicate and share the experience of learning together over one and half hours - exchanging ideas, viewing video clips, pictures, internet, worksheets and enabling small group discussions. There is dedicated support from the Centre and also Zoom videos about how to get started. Since May hundreds of Glasgow's older learners have found online classes, although different, are fun and rewarding. Give it a go. Browse classes at <https://mycll.strath.ac.uk>. Fees competitively priced.

Russian group discussion

Glasgow Skyline